WEBER STAKE.

WEEKLY East Huntsville Organized and A. Bingham Bishop.

ADDRESS BY PRESIDENT SMITH

Bishop David McKay Made a Patriarch And is Succeeded by Andrew

P. Renstrom. pecial Correspondence. Huntsville, Weber Co., Sept. 11 .- For ome time past the necessity of dividing a number of the wards in the Weber stake has been considered by the stake presidency. At a recent meeting of the presidency it was decided to divide the Huntsville ward by cutting off what is Tourists continue heavy patrons on the two trains a day to Saltair and the bathing department there continues Kay, who has been Bishop of Huntsville known as East Huntsville and making for 20 years, had expressed a desire to be released, owing to the likelihood of his removing to Ogden, and it was thought advisable to make it the occasion for a division of the ward and the organization of two new Bishoprics. The matter was submitted to the High Council at its meeting Sept. 5, and ap-proved. On Sunday, Sept. 10 the preslency of the stake visited East Hunts ville, and met with the people at 19:30 a.m. Presidents Joseph F. Smith and Anthon H. Lund had been invited by Bishop McKay, and were present, as was also Elder L. Dahlquist of Salt Lake City, and E. W. Wade of the High Council. A motion to call the new ward "Middleton" was unanimously adopted, and an organization was effected as follows: Albert Allen Bingham, Bishop; John M. Grow, first, and Charles W. Stromberg, second counselors; all of whom were unanimously selors; all of whom were unanimously sustained by the congregation. The new ward contains 29 families. President Smith spoke on the temporal affairs of the Church and the duties of the Bishop and his counselors, while President Lund dwelt on the wonderful work of the Lord in redeeming the waste places and beautifying the earth for His children. The Bishop and his counselors were set apart to their respective positions.

counselors were set apart to their respective positions.

In the afternoon, at 2 o'clock, a meeting was held at Huntsville proper, where Bishop McKay was honorably released from the position he had held so long, and the following brethren installed as the new Bishopric: Androw P. Renstrom, who had been Bishop McKay's first counselor, was sustained as Bishop: Charles S. Wood, heretofore second counselor, was sustained as first econd counselor, was sustained as first counselor, and John Hall was chosen second counselor. The first two named were set apart, but Elder Hall

President Land spoke of the feeling of contempt and loathing with which all humanity regard the actions of traitors to any cause, and he encouraged the Saints to be true and loyal to the cause of God and to themselves.

President Smith, in addressing the Saints, spoke complimentary of the labors of Bishop McKay, and the rest he had earned from the arduous duties of the Bishopric, and moved that he be ordained a Patriarch, which motion was unanimously adopted. President ordaned a Fatriaren, which motion was unanimously adopted. President Smith then continued in effect as follows: It has been stated that the Laiter-day Saints have made many sacrifices for the sake of their religion, but I know of nothing that appears to me to more nearly approach a sacrifice than the act of today in yielding up the man who for years has been your spiritual and temporal leader and guide. When we are called to part with good and noble men, losing their wise counsels and fatherly love and affection it is indeed a sacrifice. But it is no sacrifice to give up error for truth as the Saints have done in forsaking the dogmas of the world. I would rather be tramping in the wilderness, clothed in rags, traveling in wagons with ox teams and sleeping at night in the wagon boxes all my life and be possessor of the truth and of the glorious principles of the everlasting Gospel than live in release and miss the late. principles of the everlasting Go han live in palaces and enjoy the tries of the world and be withou uries of the world and be without it, and I would not consider it a sacrifice in the least; so in reality the Saints are not making any sacrifices. By sacrificing the pleasures of the world, and its vices we obtain that which will endure through all time and all eternity; when we exchange for truth, and immortality and glory the errors of the world we are making no sacrifice—we are the galners. As to the truth of this Gospel and the world in which we are engaged I have never since the days of my childhood, had the shadow of f my childhood, had the shadow of doubt, and I thank God for it. I ave never had a doubt that Jesus is he Christ, that God is His Father, and not He is my Redeemer and my Saver. For this blessed assurance I would be willing to part with anything I ave in this world were it demanded ather than be without it, and I would be to count it a sacrifice cither; I would be the gainer. We are assailed by wickof count it a sacrifice either; I would be the gainer. We are assailed by wick-d men and you will note that if there is one principle in the Gospel that may be considered more vital than another, hat principle is assailed the most. Take the principle of union. It is the rinciple that makes us one, that makes a the children of God. Therefore the vill one is seeking to dismite us and to If one is seeking to disunite us and to vide us, and he is very much wrough because he cannot make any inroads a our union and divide us. So will be principle of tithing; it is the rev one law of the Church and the worl enue law of the Church and the work of God could not be carried on without it. There is no more equitable revenue law than that of the Church. For this reason this principle is very much assatled. The speaker closed by invoking the blessings of God upon the people and upon the officers who had accepted the grays responsibilities of the bisses.

At the close of President Smith's remarks Bishop McKay was ordained a Patriarch. It is with many expressions of regret that the people part with their venerable leader, Bishop McKay, who for so many years has been a father to his people. By his spiritual nature, his strong convictions, his love of truth, justice and right, and his abhorrence of falsehood, trickery and all evil, he has won the love and confidence of his people and he departs from his old home, made desolate by the recent loss of his devoted and beloved wife, in full of his devoted and beloved wife, in full possession of the love, respect and esteem of the people over whom he has presided. He leaves his place in the bishopric, however, to take his place mong the Pairlarchs of the Webe
